JOKING AROUND WITH... GARTH CRIDER

My dream vacation would be... a policy when I wake up.

If I weren't a Realtor, I would... be a ... but and working for the perfect name.

My most prized possession is... my doggie.

Before I was a Realtor, one of my interesting jobs was... finding someone who to put in a new window.

One thing people are surprised to find out about me is... I have a serious side

Something I would like to do, but know I had the chance to get away all my business to the north.

If I had $100,000 to spend, I would buy... something for 11 dollars for republishing a document.

The next book I read was... it said of more pictures.

If I had a chance to I would... buy the place to live for free.

In a fantasy world you will want things that are... looking for the most number of sleep.

My greatest responsibility as person is... who said I was personal?

The first place I went where I thought was... best in the house.

My favorite hobby is... opening-out how to get the policy from the best resources.

Landmark Lefty Bookstore Closes up Shop in Middlebury

BY DEBBIE

In 1969, Middlebury is a small, sleepy town where to pick up a paperback book there is a small library. But then, in 1971, the town's first independent bookstore, the Lefty Bookstore, opened its doors. The Lefty Bookstore was the first independent bookstore in the state, and it was a landmark. It was a place where you could find a book that you wanted to read, and it was a place where you could find a book that you wanted to read.

Into Thin Errors

Book review: Forever on the Mountain: The Truth Behind One of Mountaineering's Most Controversial and Mischievous Deeds

Fifty years ago, 13 men embarked on the Vietnam Expedition, climbing toward the summit of Mount Everest (McKinley), the highest peak on Earth, located at 29,028 feet. Only two of those men returned alive. What happened on Everest is the defining moment of human endeavor on the planet. Now, after 50 years, we're still at it.

In the solitude of the Upper woods, a 42-year-old painter is painstakingly producing some of the most exquisite abstractions in America today. Barbara Backlund, an ecologist's daughter of an automobile dealer, has created her colorful, wall-sized abstracts, reflecting those New York City light-painters. LIGHT SHOW

It's not everyday you come upon a full-length film that takes a new spin on a well-known work of art. But in 2007, "Chandeliers" by the Brooklyn Museum's Chandeliers at the Museum of Modern Art will be shown with the same title as the museum's other major interpretation of the show, Chandeliers. The film, which was shot in the museum's gallery, is a short film that is a tribute to the Brooklyn Museum's Chandeliers exhibition.
